Monetization permission does not transfer ownership of the underlying beat.

6. Synchronization

Film, television, advertising, video games, branded commercial campaigns, and other third-party synchronization uses are:

☐ Not included

☐ Included only as specifically described below

Authorized synchronization:

A normal Commercial Beat Lease does not silently grant unrestricted synchronization rights.

7. Ownership of the Resulting Song

That ownership does not give Licensee ownership of Licensor's underlying beat or Composition interest.

10. Mechanical and Performance Royalties

Applicable mechanical, performance, producer, and publishing royalty treatment:

This field must be completed when such royalties apply.

11. Content ID and Automated Fingerprinting

Because this is a nonexclusive beat license, Licensee may not register the underlying beat as though Licensee owns it exclusively.

Without Music Life Studios' prior written authorization, Licensee may not enroll the beat or resulting song in YouTube Content ID or a similar automated fingerprinting system in a manner that could:

- claim another authorized licensee's release;
- block another authorized licensee;
- divert another licensee's monetization;
- penalize another authorized user; or
- falsely represent exclusive ownership of the underlying beat.

Authorized distributor/fingerprinting treatment:

Allowlisting procedure, if applicable:

12. No Resale or Sublicensing

Licensee may not:

- resell the underlying beat;
- redistribute the beat by itself;
- sublicense the beat as production for another artist;
- transfer this Commercial Lease to another person;
- make the beat available as a sample pack, production library, template, or competing beat product;
or
- authorize another person to create a separate song from this license,

unless Music Life Studios expressly approves that activity in writing.

13. Samples and Third-Party Material

Known third-party sample status:

☐ Third-party material may be present

Commercial Lease Price: $_____

Credit Applied: $__

Remaining Amount Due: $__

Any credit must be disclosed before acceptance.

15. Existing Release and Continuing Rights

Music Life Studios does not intend for a properly authorized commercial release to be automatically removed solely because a membership, loyalty program, or reward-redemption period later ends.

The following continuing rights for an already authorized release apply:

The following activities require renewal, upgrade, or separate permission:

These fields must be finalized before the license is sold.

16. Usage-Cap Exceedance

If Licensee approaches or exceeds an applicable use limit, Licensee must obtain any renewal or upgrade required by this Commercial Lease before continuing activity that exceeds the licensed scope.

Music Life Studios will not automatically treat an inadvertent overage as an ownership transfer or grant of additional rights.

Upgrade / renewal procedure:

17. Later Exclusive Sale

A later exclusive sale of the beat does not erase this Commercial Lease if this License was validly granted earlier.

This License continues according to its written terms.

Future upgrades or expanded rights after a later exclusive sale are not guaranteed unless this Commercial Lease expressly provides otherwise.

18. Payment or Reward Reversal

A payment or membership transaction that is later refunded, successfully charged back, reversed for fraud, or otherwise invalidated may affect unredeemed rewards.

If this Commercial Lease has already been issued, Music Life Studios will preserve the license record rather than silently deleting or rewriting it.

The legal effect on continuing rights must be determined under this License, applicable law, and the circumstances of the reversal.

19. No Exclusive Rights or Assignment

Unless a separate Exclusive License or Copyright Assignment is executed, this Commercial Lease does not:

- give Licensee exclusive rights;
- transfer copyright ownership;
- transfer Licensor's publishing interest;
- create work-made-for-hire status; or
- prevent Licensor from honoring other valid nonexclusive licenses.

20. Acceptance

Licensee confirms understanding that:

1. this Commercial Lease is nonexclusive;
2. other authorized songs may use the same instrumental;
3. ownership of the underlying beat remains with Licensor;
4. usage is limited to the rights stated here;
